

"The Jungle Book"

Photos Bill GNADE / Sentinel Staff

Above, Will Huntley is a bear among bears dancing in a scene choreographed by Cassandra Tobey in "The Jungle Book," a production of the MoCo Arts School of Dance. The performance was held over two days, at the Redfern Arts Center at Keene State College. MoCo Arts is a nonprofit group that provides arts education to children ranging from 18 months to 18 years old, and serves more than 2,300 kids a year. It offers dance programs in styles such as ballet, tap and hip-hop; a variety of theater programs and camps. Below, from left: Tessa Minahan is a bird in a scene choreographed by Kristen Leach; King Louie, played by Maggie Cahoon; and Molly Thomas is a dancing butterfly in a scene choreographed by Reagan Messer. MoCo Arts is aiming to move into a brand-new, 17,000-square-foot venue of its own, on Roxbury Street in Keene, by next summer.

VIEW THE FULL PHOTO GALLERY AT SENTINELSOURCE.COM